

Gibbs Chapel

Freestanding octagonal chapel built c.1930 to designs by Reginald Fairlie with single-bay single-storey canted side entrance. Ashlar dressed walls having projecting base plinth and overhanging cornice to eaves. Square-headed window openings with stone tracery having leaded lights. Square-headed door opening with simple moulded surround and two semi-circular steps. Rose window over door. Ogee profile roof having purple fish scale roof slates/tiles and two cross finials.

Belladrum Estate
Beaully
Inverness-shire
IV4 7BA
Scotland

Scan for Google Maps Link

Architects

Reginald Fairlie

Year Built

1930

Style

--

Listing

Grade B (Scotland)

Condition

Good

History

Built for the honourable Ida Merry of Belladrum, the chapel contains her ashes and those of her husband Archie Merry. Outside are buried the remains of Lieutenant Colonel Eion Merry and his son, Field Marshal Sir Roland Gibbs. The chapel is now used as a venue for wedding celebrations.

Sources

Photos

Location

SatNav Co-ordinates: 57.44348177042435, -4.463322789763417